

Tabitha Jones-McKnight, DO, MPH, CPE, Dr. Tabitha Jones-McKnight is Assistant Medical Director at the Ohio Department of Health (ODH) where she provides clinical and public health leadership and guidance to various programs and community health initiatives. Before joining ODH, she cared for children living in underserved communities as a National Health Service Corps Scholar and primary care pediatrician. A graduate of the University of Maryland Eastern Shore (B.S. Biology), The Ohio State University (MPH), and Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine (D.O.), Dr. Jones-McKnight trained as an intern with the U.S. Public Health Service and completed an internship and pediatrics residency at Nationwide Children's Hospital and Doctors Hospital West in Columbus, OH. She is also a graduate of the Columbus Medical Association's Physicians Leadership Academy and the American Academy of Physician Leadership, Certified Physician Executive Program. Dr. Jones-McKnight is actively involved in community-based initiatives aimed at improving health outcomes for children and families, reducing health disparities, and promoting optimal health for all. On behalf of the Director of Health, she serves on the Ohio Commission on Minority Health and the Doula Advisory Group. Dr. Jones-McKnight is board certified by the American Osteopathic Board of Pediatrics and is a member of the Gold Humanism Honor Society. She is an Associate Clinical Professor in the Department of Primary Care at Ohio University Heritage College of Osteopathic Medicine where she serves as Discipline Director of Pediatrics.