

Vickie Taylor, MA in Communication, serves as Health Commissioner at the Ashland County Health Department and is an adjunct professor in Human Communication and Health Communication at Ashland University. Her leadership and teaching experience at the intersection of public health operations and communication ensures this workshop focuses on clarity, alignment, and trauma-informed de-escalation for high-stakes, public-facing environments.