

Noah Stuby, MBA Noah has worked in local public health for over 10 years and currently work as the Deputy Health Commissioner for Greene County Public Health. I routinely work with other local health departments to assess their financial health and provide strategies and tools to improve their financial outlook. I continue to develop financial training modules and educational material for the Region V Public Health Training Center, universities and colleges, NACCHO, AOHC, and other associations within the local governmental public health system. I've served as an independent consultant in the public health and health policy space and as a lecturer in the Division of Health Policy and Management, in the School of Public Health at the University of Minnesota.
