

Julianne Nesbit, MPH, REHS has dedicated her career to advancing community health across Ohio and has served as Health Commissioner for Clermont County Public Health since 2013. She holds a bachelor's degree in environmental management from Ball State University, a Master of Public Health from Wright State University, and is a registered environmental health specialist. Julianne is President of the Association of Ohio Health Commissioners and remains an active leader in shaping public health policy, programs, and partnerships.